Beach renourishment on hold

BY MARY G. SEILEY

The mad dash by Bay St. Louis city officials to have T.L. James Co. renourish the city's waterfront sputtered to a halt Thursday.

But city officials refused to drop the project, saying they would find another way -- and probably another company -- to do the project.

"T.L. James is out of touch and gone. They didn't say good-bye," said Les Fillingame, briefing City Council members in their fourth meeting of the week. For the city's purposes, he said, "They're gone."

Fillingame said the company pulled some of its equipment out of town Wednesday night. A barge, heavily laden with pipes that had spewed 4.4 miles of sand from the Sound to the waterfront between Washington and Dane streets, still bobs in wait offshore. The firm's crew ship and some dredge equipment remained offshore Saturday.

The company's senior project manager, Charles W. Granger, told the city's sand beach engineer earlier in the week James Co. won't be able to do the city project immediately, although they'd be "happy to provide a proposal for this work to be performed at a later date."

"It's sad, but it ain't over," said Mayor Eddie Favre. "The project ain't dead." The mayor said the James Co. "hurried" to depart after wrapping up its work for Hancock County. There were rumors, the mayor said, that the firm was anxious to get out of its contract, perhaps having bid too little for the work.

Council member Tom Farve said the firm "led us on, as if they were ready, and then they pulled out... I think they really done it to us."

The James Co. was the low-bidder on the Hancock County renourishment project, offering to renourish 5.7 miles of beach for $2,892,417. The bid was some $900,000 less than project engineers had expected and dipped well below other offers to do the job.

The county project was cut short by state and federal officials who objected to harming sea grasses along part of the renourishment pathway south of Dane Street. But the city had hoped to have the firm move northward, and lay a 200-foot-wide sand berm between Bookter Street and the Highway 90 bridge.

Like the county, city officials see the project primarily as a way to protect the seawall from erosion. Although the city obtained permits to do the project, and had cash on hand to pay for it, the James Co. insisted it had to leave for a Corps of Engineers dredging project near Iuka, Ms.

U.S. Sen. Trent Lott and Rep. Gene Taylor were asked to help persuade the Corps to delay that project for 21 days, giving the James Co. time to do the work before leaving town. The Corps, however, said Wednesday that a 21-day delay would be "extremely detrimental" to efforts to keep the Black Warrior-Tombigbee and the Alabama-Coosa River navigational systems operational.

"If a lesser time frame was reasonable, then we were prepared to evaluate the risk to our systems in order to try to reach a compromise to meet everyone's needs," said Col. Robert H. Griffin, Corps district engineer.

But Griffin said he'd been told by the James Co. that 21 days would be an "absolute

School board meeting marred by haggling

BY ELLIS CUEVAS

The Hancock County School Board's marathon meeting Monday was marred with haggling over such items as posting openings in the district, payment(?) of jury duty for teachers, hiring of a physical education teacher and the number of student sick days.

Throughout the meeting Superintendent Myrna Bourgeois and school board member Lynette Necaise exchanged opposite opinions.

Necaise wants all job openings to be posted in all of the schools and the central office, saying that employees do not hear about openings until they are already filled.

Bourgeois said that (posting) is already done.

The board did approve a policy that all positions were to be posted and that job positions were going to be given to the board.

Bourgeois said that she was not going to do this.

The superintendent and board were in agreement that the school's architect, J. Mylolyk, needed to be present to help sort out roofing problems, especially at Gulfview.

A subcontractor appeared at the meeting trying to urge the board to make payments on the roofing work at the school.

County considers removal of barriers

BY MARY G. SEILEY

Some South Beach Boulevard property owners may be under orders from the county to clear out of the county's right-of-way.

Board of Supervisors President Micheal Ladner said Monday he's had complaints that some residential property owners alongside the newly refurbished sand beach have placed obstructions in the right-of-way.

Ladner said iron pipes, lumber, concrete blocks, flower beds "and everything else" have been placed in some sections of the right-of-way to deter people from parking.

Supervisors questioned whether they'd also have to order Beach Boulevard residents to relocate their mailboxes. Ladner said Tuesday he

Citizens complain about road upkeep

BY MARY G. SEILEY

Hancock County officials huddled in executive session Monday after hearing another complaint about road upkeep in the unincorporated area.

They emerged after discussion "personnel" matters with road superintendent Sam Cuevas, and said they had taken no action.

What apparently sparked the meeting was the appearance of William Oates, who said fellow residents of rural Gull Street have been given nothing but "promises" concerning up keep of their roadway.

"We haven't had an ounce of dirt," Oates complained, saying that roads with no residences have "beautiful stones" along upgraded beds.

"I have left message after message after message" with road officials," Oates said. "It's like talking to the wall."

His is one of several complaints aired by citizens in recent weeks concerning the City recommends zoning of office

City officials are recommending approval of a controversial plan to allow an attorney's office at 335 Main St. in Bay St. Louis.

The Planning and Zoning Commission devoted 90 minutes to the issue Wednesday night, hearing protests from nearby residents who have petitioned against the proposal. Area residents say further commercialization of Main Street will erode residential property values, and dump unwanted traffic in their block.

The commission said the proposed use of the old home at issue is well within the "home occupancy" concept of the city zoning code. To impose restrictions on use of the property, commission members recommended granting a "special exception" to the residential zoning that the property carries.

Wednesday was the proposal's second turn at bat. Initially, prospective buyers had asked for re-zoning, but withdrew that request in the face of hot opposition.

The plan was resubmitted as a request for a "special exception" to the city's zoning.

Under the plan hammered out Wednesday, the property

OBITUARIES

HARRY F. GARCIA MARIANNE P. TERRELL

HARRY F. GARCIA
Harry F. Garcia Jr., 71, of Gulfport, died Tuesday, May 3, 1994, in Biloxi.

Mr. Garcia was a native of Hancock County and was a life-long resident of the Coast. He was a retired machinist at Ingalls Shipbuilding. He was an Army veteran of World War II and received the Purple Heart with two Oakleaf Clusters, five Bronze Battle Stars and the Silver Star. He was a member of the VFW and the Joe Graham Post No. 119 of the American Legion. He was a Catholic.

Survivors include his wife, Mrs. Maidie M. Garcia of Gulfport; a son, Harry F. Garcia III of Scottsdale, Ariz.; two sisters, Mrs. Lois Newman of Gulfport and Mrs. Grace Salzman of Mount Joy, Pa.; five brothers, Charles Gonzales, Kenneth Garcia and Ronald Garcia, all of Gulfport, Marvin Garcia of Lancaster, Pa., and Warren Garcia of Hollywood, Fla.; and five grandchildren.

Home in Gulfport, followed by graveside services with full military honors in Biloxi National Cemetery.

MARIANNE P. TERRELL
Mrs. Marianne Perkins Terrell, 84, formerly of Columbia, died Wednesday, May 4, 1994, in New Orleans.

Mrs. Terrell was a 1931 graduate of Newcomb College in New Orleans, where she was chosen beauty queen. She was a resident of Columbia for more than 50 years.

She was preceded in death by her husband, Dr. Vernon Lagrange Terrell, and their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Jones Perkins.

Survivors include a son, Vernon Lagrange Terrell Jr. of Pass Christian; two daughters, Mrs. Richard Peel Wolfe of New Orleans and Mrs. John Frederick Allen-Gaines of Atlanta; five grandchildren; two stepgrandchildren; and three great-grandchildren.

Some children are victims twice

Special to the Echo

When children are the victims of abuse, often times they are unintentionally traumatized by the systems that are asked to protect them.

Children who are removed from the familiar surroundings of their home, have often times in the past been left to cope with the additional emotional traumas associated with appearing in court with no one to speak for them.

Lengthy investigation, litigation, and waiting for parents to comply with agreements and/or court orders for counseling, et cetera, take an emotional toll on children. Some children may only see their parent or parents once a month for an hour or two, some children don't see their parents at all, which further adds to their trauma.

Too often due to the deep lying feelings of confusion, mistrust, hurt, and guilt the young victims are left scarred for years. Sometimes these feelings last a lifetime.

One must realize with so many cases of abuse reported monthly, up to 130, in Hancock County and Harrison County alone; the overworked staff of the Department of Human Services (DHS) can not give the special attention that each abused and neglected child needs. They must concentrate on the overall well being and safety of all the children concerned.

Fortunately, for the children of Hancock and Harrison County there are the CASA (Court Appointed Special Advocate) and the Parent Aide Programs.

CASA of Hancock County is a volunteer program designed to help the abused and neglected children of our local community.

Becoming a CASA volunteer for an abused child means the child will have a voice in the court process. Your involvement is for the best interest of the child. You are not the judge or lawyer. You are the child's friend and advocate.

To become a CASA volunteer requires fifteen hours of training, which includes videos, and a variety of professional speakers and trainers from the local area. Once the workshop has been completed a volunteer is sworn in by the Hancock County Judge.

In addition Hancock and Harrison Counties also have a very active Parent Aide Program. This program requires twelve hours of training. Once the workshop has been completed a volunteer is then placed to work with a family within the home environment to overcome abuse, heal the scars of previous wounds and work through stressful situations that could otherwise lead to abuse.

To become a volunteer in your local community please call 467-9747 or 467-7945 in Hancock County, call 868-8686 in Harrison County.

Disaster plans need to be well organized

BY MARY G. SEILEY

Some non-profit organizations need to shore up their disaster insurance plans, Hancock County officials say.

County Civil Defense director Robert Boudin told Hancock County Board of Supervisors recently that the rules have changed concerning federal relief for "non-essential" non-profit organizations.

Under the new rules, organizations that aren't vital to the public interest no longer will be eligible for federal aid if disaster strikes, such as a hurricane. Those that are essential, he said, still are covered under the new federal rules.

He gave a few examples, citing such groups as senior citizens' organizations, which are considered essential to community interests. Others, such as veterans' organizations, aren't considered essential and therefore won't be eligible for federal disaster aid, he said.

"They will not be able to get in line for federal help. If disaster strikes, they're going to have to have insurance" on their buildings and property, Boudin said.

The civil defense director said he'd learned of the rules change at a recent conference. He plans to notify as many area organizations as possible of the changes, to allow time for them to make sure they have adequate insurance coverage.

Boudin asked supervisors to help spread the word among area organizations.

minimum" needed for the job, if all scenarios for the work were "perfect." The firm said realistically, the job would take more than 21 days.

Griffin said prescheduled lock closures on the waterway systems had shippers moving materials as quickly as possible. "This heavy laden traffic, in addition to normal shoaling requirements, places us in a critical dredging posture to prevent shoaling that could result in an early shutdown of the system."

Council members and the mayor speculated Thursday on other possible reasons for the abrupt exist of the James Co. "I'd still like to know if there's something we didn't know," said councilman Charles Scianna.

But the conversation turned quickly toward alternative ways to get the project off the ground.

Council authorized the mayor to move the city into position to put the project out for bids. The city may try having sand pumped from offshore, or trucked to the water's edge.

"There are plenty of possibilities, so if T.L. James thought it was all or nothing, I hate to tell them..." said the mayor.

Fillingame said even if the city had exerted enough pressure to keep T.L. James on the job, "I don't think they would have given us a good price." Whatever the price would have been -- the company never said how much -- it would have doubtless been more if the city had to pay to remobilize the crew and equipment for the work.

As if the pullout of the James Co. weren't enough, the city Thursday received word from private property owners who had planned to piggyback the city's renourishment program, saying they would not participate financially.

The city's part of the project lies adjacent to the seawall, which stretches from Washington Street to Bay View Court.

City funds were to pay for renourishing most of that area, skipping two sections where marshes grow.

Meanwhile, the private property owners between Bay View and the bridge had offered to pay their share to pump a beach alongside their lands. That offer was withdrawn, however, when the state took the position that the new beach would be public property, no matter who paid for it.

The state contends that once land has eroded along the shore, the bottomland becomes public property. Fillingame said in effect there's no way for the private land owners to reclaim the land that is gone due to erosion. The city, however, plans to renourish the area in question and declare it public beach eventually.

While the area immediately south of the bridge has eroded dramatically, the beachfront north of the bridge has been piling up just as dramatically. Favre said the city will look at the ever-increasing sand mass north of the bridge, and see if it can be tapped as a sand source for renourishment.

Council member Tad Black said the city should ask the county to help pay for the proposed renourishment program.

Who owns what?

An age-old problem has re-developed with the pumping of the sand beach along Beach Boulevard.

The problem is that some beach property homeowners are placing posts, posts with ropes, metal posts with chains, metal rods, shrubs and even concrete blocks with flowers on publicly owned land.

One of the reasons for all of the objects is to keep beach users from parking on county owned property.

Everyone has a right to park on the shoulders of Beach Boulevard, the home owners as well as those using the beach.

The property is owned by the county as a right-a-way for the seawall, it runs some 20 to 30 feet on the landside of the road.

The problems was addressed some 40 years ago when the late R.G. (Manny) Hubbard was supervisor for District Five.

At that time District Five included all of Beach Boulevard.

A solution then, as may be necessary now, was to run a bulldozer from one end of Beach Boulevard on the county's right-a-way to the other. Only the mail boxes were left.

Another possible solution would be to place a lane on the land side of Beach Boulevard and close the lane nearest to the water for parking.

This way no one would have to cross traffic to get to the sand beach.

Then the only thing missing would be public restroom and shower facilities.

We realize those parking in these areas should also respect the area and not leave a lot of debris.

We are waiting for the Hancock County Board of Supervisors to 'crank up the dozer.'

HAPPY MOTHER'S DAY

I am sure some of you are wondering why the flags along Highway 90 in Bay St. Louis are flying at half mast.

It is because there is a Congressional order on the books, and it has been there for many years, when a president, or past president of the U.S. dies, flags fly at half mast for 30 day.

Gene Schloegel, flag chairman, told me the highway flags will be flying half mast until the morning of May 23.

I know I have seen some flags about that are not a half mast and officially they should be until May 22.

Illegal barricades?

Several beachfront property owners have placed barriers on public-owned land along Waveland and Bay St. Louis which are possibly illegal. Examples are in the photos above and below. The Hancock County Board of Supervisor's attorney is checking the ordinances. (Echo staff photos by Ellis Cuevas).

FROM THE SENATE

By Senator Trent Lott

Notes from Mississippi

This is probably the most beautiful time of the year to be home in Mississippi because of the weather, the flowers and the people.

While Congress took a recess for the Easter and Passover holidays, I enjoyed being in several towns and cities in a dozen counties. Among others, I travelled from Jackson to Port Gibson to Natchez to Laurel and Waynesboro and all along the Coast, speaking to pilgrimages, civic clubs, health care forums and student groups.

Perhaps my most interesting visit was with Mrs. Inman's third grade class at Magnolia Park Elementary School in Ocean Springs. Ocean Springs obviously has an excellent school system with outstanding children, teachers, staff and administrators, but this was truly a bright-eyed group led by Class Mayor Blake Bonderer. Blake had invited me, along with a number of other elected officials, to speak to his class.

The most impressive thing about this event with Mrs. Inman's class was that the students asked over 20 unscripted, very timely questions. If Mrs. Inman's students represent the future of our country, then we are going to be in very good hands.

Almost everywhere I went on my visits, Mississippians asked me about crime control, health care reform and Whitewater. In the case of crime, they are angry and want something done about senseless, random crimes, particularly that are committed by repeat offenders.

Within the next six weeks, we will know whether Congress has the resolve to produce a bill that will help fight violent crime in this country. I certainly support a strong crime package like the one which passed the Senate last year. I hope the House of Representatives can pass a similar version in the next few weeks.

On the issue of health care reform, Mississippians were more inquisitive than they were adamant in stating their positions. They asked how health care reform would work. How much would it cost. Would it be government-controlled.

The odds are that we will see passage of some sort of health care reform this year, but not as originally proposed by the Clinton Administration.

Hopefully it will focus on insurance reform, market reform, special attention to access to medical care in rural areas and efforts to hold down increasing costs.

With Whitewater, no one knows how or when that matter will conclude. Each day there seems to be another revelation, but we will not know what is involved until the special prosecutor completes his investigation and the appropriate committees of the Congress have conducted their oversight hearings. That may still take weeks or months.

In the meantime, it is imperative that important legislation like crime control, health care reform and welfare reform go forward.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Bay reader responds to California letter

Dear Editor:

In response to a letter printed by Marsha C. Reynoso, I would like to comment on a few things.

First we honor the Confederacy as a memorial to the brave men and women who gave their lives and labor to the cause. It is not about slavery at all. Many of the African Americans gladly went to war with their masters not to serve as their valets, but to fight and die for the Confederacy.

It was a gentler way of life in another era that you obviously will never understand. We teach our children from the very same history books that your schools teach your children from.

You have completely missed the point about the whole Civil War. The South was forced to become separate because of the northern ideals being forced upon them.

We do celebrate Dr. King's birthday, and our schools close for this day and our children know very well what they are celebrating and the reason why contrary to what you stated in your letter to the editor.

It was truly a rich man's war, but a poor man's fight.

You mentioned that you wished to forget that it ever happened. There are also people who claim that the holocaust never happened, but that's a different subject.

April is the perfect month to show honor to the Confederacy. It is the most beautiful month of the year in the Deep South. The azaleas are in full bloom as well as our lovely magnolia trees. It is God's renewal of the earth, and we truly appreciate it.

Perhaps you will not be so full of hatred if you come to our beautiful area and spend awhile with us. We will welcome you as we do all visitors. Come and take advantage of our Southern Hospitality.

Sincerely,
Teresa Pernicario

Resident feels alderman should know zoning official

Dear Editor:

My wife has just retired from the City of Waveland after 9 1/2 years of service. Mr. Weidman has been an alderman going on four years.

My wife was the zoning official and the building official's secretary.

We were at the Board of Alderman meeting last Tuesday, and she received a plaque for her services.

A new zoning official was appointed because my wife retired. Mr. Weidman objected to the new appointment with his regular "no".

He also made the comment, "I thought Keith Mitchell was the zoning official". He not only didn't know Mrs. Keating was the zoning official, but asked just what is a zoning official.

He should lift himself out of the "no" category in to "know" what's going on category, before objecting to anything.

How can the fourth ward citizens depend on Mr. Weidman's concepts? He doesn't know who holds what office and what they do.

May I suggest that maybe these citizens should start attending some of these meetings, and see for themselves the extent of Mr. Weidman's knowledge when he voices his "no's".

Pass reader responds to letter from Calif.

To the Editor:

In response to the California reader:

You cannot hide your head in the sand and pretend that something that did happen did not.

So many people only see one thing about the Civil War.

It was not just about slavery. It went beyond that — it was about principles and fighting for what you believed in.

This was a beautiful era marred by hate, bitterness and bloodshed.

You obviously are bigotted and have a lot to learn, so you better open up those history books and read up on the history you only think you know about.

I am very proud of my southern heritage and proudly display the flag, fallen or not, with honor and dignity. I am not ashamed or embarrassed.

I guess that us white Southerners feel the same need to commemorate and celebrate this like blacks everywhere feel the need to have Black History Month and constantly shove Martin Luther King down our throat.

You're right, it is time for us white Southerners to stand up and be counted for our contributions to history.

For you to so racially pick apart and put down our celebration with your biased bigotry is a true reflection of your level of racism.

Apparently you have a long way to go.

THE PEOPLE'S BUSINESS

From the Mississippi Economic Council

Money alone won't buy good schools

One of the better programs enacted by the Legislature to measure the performance of the state's education system is a monitoring device labeled The Mississippi Report Card.

The latest report focuses on the state's 149 public school districts and four agricultural high schools for the 1992-93 school year. An ending summary score accredits each district with a numerical value from 1 to 5, based on test scores in several levels of reading, math, writing and language.

Only two districts — Corinth and Ocean Springs — received the highest accreditation rating of 5, which means the districts are considered "model districts." There was no 4 score, which identifies "distinguished achievement." Most of the districts were accredited with 3 scores, meaning "adequate." But an alarming total of 49 districts were scored the lowest levels of 2 and 1. A score of 2 means "deficient," and a score of 1 denotes an "at risk" district.

Mississippians might assume that the difference between the "model districts" and the other is a simple matter of money, but this isn't the case.

The two districts with the highest accreditations spent about $3,350 per pupil, and the 49 districts with the lowest accreditations spend about $3,700 per pupil.

And what about the district which produced the Mississippi Economic Council's 1993-94 State All-Star Scholar — the year's highest scoring student on both the ACT and overall grades in either public or private high schools? That district spent only $2,869 per student.

Perhaps there is much more to education excellence than the amount of money spent. Perhaps the difference is the amount of reinforcement students receive both at home and in the classroom.

Brother John Hotstream, the St. Stanislaus Key Club moderator, announced that the Key Club received First Place in overall achievement while attending the LaMissTenn District Key Club International Convention in April. This award is given based on the total projects for a year. The SSC Key Club chapter has hosted dances for the South Mississippi Retardation Center, sponsors the SSC Literary Magazine, works with the elderly by hosting Bingo and prayer services, and they sponsored a clothing drive for the Navajo Indians. In addition to the overall achievement award, the Key Club received a trophy for second place in a single service. This award was given for the work the Key Club has done with Dorm A on the campus of St. Stanislaus. The resident students in Dorm A are sixth and seventh graders and the Key Club had a Welcome Bar-B-Que at the beginning of the year, sponsored prayer services and tutored the students.

The parent or legal guardian should register his/her child at the school in the area in which he/she resides.

Before a child will be able to register, the following requirements must be met:

The child must be 5 years of age on or before September 1, 1994; must have a certified copy of birth certificate; must have Mississippi Certificate of Compliance from local health department or doctor; must have 2 proofs of residency with current street address (utility bills, driver's license, property deed, rent receipt, voter registration card, etc.). (If your child has a Social Security number please provide that information for school records.)

Children may be registered in the office during regular school hours after May 13, but will not have the opportunity to meet the teachers and see the classrooms until school starts if they are unable to register during Open House. Myrna Bourgeois, superintendent, said.

County

doesn't think mailboxes will have to be moved.

While there are no firm plans to upgrade parking along the beach route, Ladner said the county will have to consider removing some of the sand that has piled up in some sections of the right-of-way, and replacing it with clay gravel or pavement.

Board attorney Gerald Gex said Tuesday he has research to do before proceeding with the right-of-way issue, including inspecting the area at issue for specific encroachments. The county has 25 to 30 feet of right-of-way on the landside of Beach Boulevard, he said.

county's road maintenance system.

In other business, the supervisors refused to hike the amount it pays public officials for official use of private cars. The rate is 20 cents per mile now, but the state recently passed a measure allowing an increase to 25 cents.

Supervisor Howard Lizana said the rate should be left as it is, considering the county is in the middle of a budget year. The rest of the board agreed.

Expansion of Wastewater District 1's boundaries also was discussed, with supervisors raising concerns over the tax liabilities of potential new occupants of the district.

The board has agreed to help the district expand its sewer system by issuing general obligation bonds. In addition, the board has blessed the idea of adding the Pearlinton area to the district, opening the door for a sewer project there.

District officials say they're confident that revenues from sewer customers now in the district will be sufficient to pay off the bonds. If the revenues fall short, however, the district's residents would be charged a special tax levy to make up the difference.

"I don't think the people ought to be paying if they aren't getting any service," said Supervisor Alton Kellar. Board Attorney Gerald Gex is looking into whether residents added to the district after the bond issue would be liable for its repayment.

In other action, the board asked regional planners to prepare to apply for a $350,000 rural housing program. The money would be available to home owners earning less than $22,000, to upgrade their residences.

Under the HOME "partnership" program, the county -- or the participating home owners -- would have to match their grants with 10 percent financing.

"I'd go along with that if the homeowner would put up the money," said Supervisor Michael Ladner of the 10 percent match required. Ladner said municipalities and other counties have been receiving similar grants, "but I've never seen anything coming to Hancock County."

The application must be filed by the end of May for the county to qualify.

School

School board attorney Steve Benvenuti recommended to the board that the warranty needed to be in accordance with Mississippi's laws, not some other state.

Mylolyk's request for an advance payment on school improvements was soundly defeated by school board members for a lack of information from the architect.

Board president Cheryl Ben-net and board member Larry Peterson both said they haven't even seen a line drawing. The board rejected Mylolyk's request for the $4,117.50 payment which was 25% of his cost for the projects.

It was indicated that Mylolyk was out of the country on vacation.

The board had several discussions as to whether it should go into executive session to discuss the hiring of a full-time athletic director.

The board voted to go into executive session to decide if it was needed.

A few minutes later the board re-opened the meeting to the press and said it was not necessary to go into executive session on the matter.

Once again, there was an exchange between Bourgeois and Necaise. Necaise said she felt there was no need for another physical education teacher.

During the discussion Bourgeois said all Necaise wanted to do was get her name into the newspaper.

After a very lengthy discussion, the board decided it needed to keep the position part-time and will bring the matter back up in September.

The board went into executive session a second time and came out approving acceptance of three students from outside the district pending tuition payment.

In discussing and approving the students, the board used the students' initials.

The board agenda contained some 59 matters which were handled with the exception of several the board felt they needed more information on.

After a lengthy discussion on whether teachers should be paid for jury duty, it was decided the matter should be tabled.

The board approved several recommendations on personnel matters.

The board then adjourned to a later date to handle tabled matters.

will be used primarily as a residence for attorney Ann Lazara. She will use the rear part of the house, about 28 percent of its total square footage, to conduct her law practice.

Lazara said while she has been in general practice previously, her practice now is limited entirely to breast implant litigation. Most of her work is conducted via the mail and over the phone, she said, with almost no clientel visiting her office.

In fact, she said she hopes to use the home entirely as a residence in a couple of years. She and her brother, Lester Clark, are buying the property as "branch" of his practice in Hattiesburg, the commission was told, although he will not practice law at the house.

One neighbor of the prospective home-office said approval of the plan is like allowing "weeds in a flower garden. You can let a couple go, but if you don't watch out... it'll eat us up, surround us and take over."

Attorney Henry Cook argued that several non-residential uses already are in the block of Main at issue, including the Knights of Columbus building "with all their commercial paraphernalia and bingo sign; a ballet school, an apartment building and an alterations shop."

"If you give a variance for one, I don't see why you wouldn't for another," Cook said.

That logic is exactly why some of the residents turned out Wednesday -- they contend that one variance leads to another, eroding the integrity of the city's zoning plan.

They also argued that the Knights of Columbus is a long-established part of the neighborhood, and the alterations shop is nothing more than a traditional home occupation generating no traffic.

Lazara said her law practice would generate almost no traffic either. Commissioner David Reynolds said the proposal was "within a hair's breath of a home occupation," and, as such, would need no approval by the city. "I don't see why we have anything to do with this" request, said Reynolds. "I don't know why we are here."

Cook said the purchasers can't get bank financing without the city's blessing, however, and asked that the city grant a "special exception" allowing the project rather than regarding it as a home occupation needing no special permit.

Under the recommendations headed for action by City Council, the property would be restricted for use by one attorney, with the office in an existing apartment at the rear of the structure. The residential appearance must be maintained, and only two rooms of the dwelling may be used for the lawyer's offices.

If the property is sold, it reverts to strictly residential use.

Cook said his client plans extensive work to restore the old dwelling, and to beautify the grounds. A three-square-foot sign is allowed for the office.

Stealing home

BY JOSEPH W. GEX II
The Bay High Tigers baseball team advanced to the second round of the Class 4A state playoffs on Thursday with a 4-3 win over McComb at Tiger Stadium.

This is the first time the Tigers have made the playoffs since 1988.

The Tigers opened the scoring in the first with Sam Sheppard scoring off a steal. McComb answered the wake-up call and tied the game in the top of the third.

Bay High exploded for three runs in the bottom of the third. Sheppard singled and Mark Dupuy got on by an error. Then, Wali Shabazz singled home Sheppard. Bennie Murphy collected his two RBI's with a two-run single up the middle.

McComb rallied in the bottom of the sixth to score two runs but it was to no avail. Dupuy came in relief for the Tigers in a bases loaded situation. He retired the threat.

Wali Shabazz led the Tiger offensive attack going 3 for 3 with an RBI. Bennie Murphy went 1 for 3 with 2 RBI's. Sam Sheppard went 1 for 2 scoring 2 runs for the Tiger.

Bay High's record to date is 14-12 overall and advance to the second round of the Class 4A state playoffs. The Tigers will play McComb in the second game of the best-of-three series on Tuesday.

DeRussy's team top in State Farm benefit

This year's State Farm/Archie Manning Golf Classic was a huge success. According to tournament organizers, the event netted $32,000 for the fight against Cystic Fibrosis, the number one genetic killer of young Americans.

Participants golfed four-man teams in a scramble format at the Broadwater Beach Sea Course in Gulfport. Winners of the event are as follows:

First place: Louis Braden, Mark DeRussy, Gerald Emil and Bo Lindsay; score: 52 net.

Second place: Mike Dixon, Buddy Palazzo, Mike Pennington and Ted Roberts; score: 53.6 net.

Third place: Peter Abide, Jim Compton, Jeff Elder and Tim Gill; score: 53.8 net.

Renee Ganucheau of the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation said this year's event garnered Coastwide participation. She said that fundraising is critical to help researchers achieve the cure for Cystic Fibrosis that they expect within the next three to five years.

Title sponsor for the event was State Farm Insurance Companies, and major sponsors were CellularOne, Coast Business and The President Casino.

PRCC headed to playoffs

BY JOSEPH W. GEX II

The Pearl River Community College Wildcats finished second in the South Division and are headed to the state junior college playoffs for the sixth time since 1988.

The Wildcats defeated Jones Junior College 9-0 and 8-6 on April 30. The Wildcats will play Mississippi Delta Community College in the state tournament that starts on Friday.

Pearl River has played Mississippi Delta four times this year and have split with them. PRCC is no stranger to the playoffs. The Wildcats lost the overall crown to Mississippi Delta in 1991. The Wildcats were runner-up to Hinds in 1989, and made it to the playoffs in 1988, 1990, and last year.

Hancock County players on the PRCC squad are John Bishop, Mickey Quinlan, Adam Breerwood, Kevin Jacobi, Bryce Gex, and Johnny Rutherford.

John Bishop, of Bay St. Louis, is second on the team in batting with an average of .351. Bishop has 21 RBIs, 7 doubles, and 2 HR's on the year.

Mickey Quinlan, of Bay St. Louis, is batting .337. Quinlan has 10 RBIs, 3 doubles, 1 triple, and leads the team in stolen bases with 32 swipes.

Adam Breerwood, of Waveland, is batting .276. Breerwood has 24 RBIs, 8 doubles, 1 triple, and 3 HR's.

Kevin Jacobi, of Waveland, is batting .211. Jacobi has 5 RBIs, 1 double, and 1 HR on the season.

Bryce Gex, of Bay St. Louis, is primarily a base runner for the Wildcats. He is second on the team with 13 stolen bases.

Johnny Rutherford, of Bay St. Louis, had a season-ending injury to his arm early in the year. He ended his season batting .250.

The Wildcats ended the season with a 29-21 overall record and a 17-7 South Division record. The Gulf Coast Bulldogs won the South Division with an 18-6 mark.

The state tournament is a double-elimination format and begins on Friday.

SSC History Office is located in a room in the history and culture wing of the SSC. Over the last 30 years, SSC has added considerably to the colorful history of this area. The land we work on today once was home to American Indian tribes.

"This same land supported the testing of the rockets that landed man on the moon," Herring further commented.

SSC History Awareness Month and Old Timers' Day are celebrated together to recognize the contributions that many former and current employees have made to the history of the center.

For more information about this year's activities, please contact Herring or Chris Harvey in the SSC History Office at (601) 688-3795.

In addition, the History Office has set up an exhibit of photographs and pamphlets detailing historical SSC events in front of the Building 1100.

BREWER'S WORLD

By Jimmie Brewer

I hope all you mothers are reading this while being served breakfast in bed this morning on YOUR day.

Never has there been a group of people more deserving to have their very own day than you mothers. And out of that group of distinguished mothers there is one who perhaps deserves to be pampered today more than any other. That would be the person who raised me and five others just like me, who are my bubbas and bubbettes.

How in the world do mothers fit so much expert knowledge into such an ordinary-sized head? My mom attended the university of motherhood. She is now a qualified doctor, lawyer, dentist, psychologist, seamstress, nutritionalist, environmentalist, teacher, economist, and most importantly, a prison guard. Being a prison guard is necessary when trying to keep track of six kids who have been grounded at the same time, or during mealtime or lights out. Do you realize, Mom, that you had five kids in grade school at the same time and lived through it? It's amazing how you could get each of us up, feed us all breakfast, fix us all lunches and get us all off to school every day.

Do you realize how many noses (and other body parts) you've wiped? Do you realize how many teeth you have extracted from teary-eyed, freckle-faced children?

My mom could pull a tooth out of our head before we even knew what hit us. And do you know, not one time did I ever feel that tooth fairy slide that reward under my pillow. But it was always there when I woke up.

You taught us kids to be proud of who we are. You were constantly telling us to "put a smile on your face, hold your head up high, and go out and face the world." You gave your children a great deal of confidence by reminding us that "we could do anything we set our minds to." You showed how to love and respect through example.

We learned right from wrong from you. Especially that time I skipped school to attend my grandmother's funeral... for the 75th time. How was I to know the principal was gonna call you to offer his condolences... again.

You taught us the importance of humor. You are the funniest mother I know. You taught us to be kind and polite to other people by telling us to "treat others as you would like them to treat you."

You made every holiday of every year of my life special. I will never know how you managed to fill the floor under the Christmas tree with presents year after year.

All of your dedication to your family is now paying off. Look at what you have now. You have six well-adjusted, successful, full-of-life grown children.

Having legal problems? Call your son Gary, the attorney. Need a loan or a dentist? Call your daughter Susan, the banker, or her husband Tom, the dentist. Feeling a little down lately? Call your other daughter Alice, who is a degreed social worker.

Know someone thrown in jail lately? Call your son Larry, the Prison Guard. Need a little entertainment this weekend? Go see your son Ben, the college baseball player. Of course if you need something to read, call me for the latest edition of "Brewer's World".

Lets see, mmmmm, who should we give the praise for do-gooders award this week? That's right, it goes out to you, Mom, and all the other mothers out there like you. You are the greatest person I have ever met. Happy Mother's Day.

You dudes and dudettes out there, have fun with your moms today. Be safe.

Ticket prices are $44.95 for American Library Association members and $49.95 for non-ALA members. Discounts are offered to groups of five or more representing the same organization.

The teleconference will also be broadcast in room 106 of the Chain Technology building on the USM-Hattiesburg campus.

Space Center honored for pioneering work

John C. Stennis Space Center was honored by NASA and the U.S. Space Foundation for its work in the development of Digital Imaging.

This technology was developed in the mid-1960's to obtain accurate, undistorted images of the surface of the Earth's moon. Today, Digital Imaging is commonly used in medical applications such as CAT-Scans, ultra-sound images and advanced X-ray technology.

Digital Imaging was inducted into the Space Technology Hall of Fame, along with the Excimer Laser Angioplasty System, during the U.S. Space Foundation 10th National Space Symposium in Colorado Springs, Colo. The two technologies were selected from ten nominated by NASA centers for consideration. An independent panel of judges evaluated the technologies.

The Space Technology Hall of Fame annually honors space spinoffs - materials and products originally developed for applications in space programs that have made significant contributions to benefit all humankind. Since 1988, 18 spin-off technologies have been honored.

The Hall of Fame Dinner was sponsored by the U.S. Space Foundation, a non-profit organization founded in 1983 to promote national awareness and support for America's space endeavors.

Senior program is offered

The Mississippi Cooperative Extensive Service in cooperation with the Area Agency on Aging of Southern Mississippi, is sponsoring "Healthwise for Life." This award-winning program is designed to teach people about health problems common to older adults and how to care for these problems. "Healthwise for Life" will be held May 12, 1994 from 10 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. at the Main Street Methodist Church in Bay St. Louis. Participants are invited to stay after the program for a complimentary lunch. A useful, free medical self-care handbook will also be given out.

Healthwise for Life received the 1992 Healthy Older Adults award from AARP and the US Public Health Service. For more information and to register, call 394-5456.

Buccola resigns, receives commendation

Emile Buccola received a commendation Monday from Hancock County officials for his service as chairman of Wastewater District 1.

Buccola is resigning after four years with the district. He said his travel plans would not allow him to offer the leadership the district needs as it proceeds with expansion projects.

The board did not name a replacement for Buccola.

In other matters, the board appointed Annette Y. Breshears to the West Hancock Fire District, filling a seat vacated by Carolyn Ducros.

Charles W. Butler was named to the Diamondhead Fire Protection District, filling the seat previously held by Sylvia Prost.

Sones called to serve in Japan

Charles Thomas Sones Jr., son of Thomas and Kay Sones of Bayou La Croix, has been called to serve a mission for the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints.

He will leave May 3 for the Missionary Training Center in Provo, Utah, and from there to the Okinawa, Japan area, where he will spend two years serving and postulating to the Japanese as part of a worldwide effort.

Sones is a graduate of Hancock High School. He attended Brigham Young University for a year and is presently working at Day's Frontier. Upon his return he will continue his studies at BYU.

Veterans COLA equity passed by full committee

The House Armed Services Committee unanimously approved a measure that would require the government to pay military retirees the same Cost of Living Adjustment (COLA) as received by Civil Service retirees, announced U.S. Rep. Gene Taylor.

Because of budgetary constraints within the Department of Defense, it was decided last year to delay COLAs to military retirees.

"I have always told Mississippi's veterans that they could count on my efforts in the House Armed Services Committee to support COLA equity for veterans and federal retirees," Taylor said.

The measure was added to the Fiscal Year 1995 Defense Authorization bill. The COLA equity issue, like all other issues that concern the nation's defense, must be included in either the Defense Authorization bill or Defense Appropriations bill if they are to be considered by Congress.

Last year's budget did call for the same COLA for federal and military retirees until the end of Fiscal Year 1994. However, beyond 1994, COLA payment dates for military and federal civilian retirees were not on the same schedule.

Novel by Robert Littell stands out as page-turner

INTERVIEW
With the Echo
by Mike Carron
Robert Littell, Russia's top specializing in the science of chaos, randomness and spies, has been allowed to leave Russia and accept a position at the Institute of Advanced Interdisciplinary Chaos-Related Studies at Backwater University in upstate New York.

With the demise of the Soviet Union and the cold war he finds himself thrust into what, to him, must be the surrealistic world of modern-day America.
This is the story of his journey to find the true identity after a lifetime of hopelessness.

He is overwhelmed by the richness of America and the attitude of its people. Falk often talks of the Russian desire for departures, but never of the arrivals, because there was nothing at the end of any journey but the same frustrations.

One of his observations is that Americans walk as if they have somewhere to go and they want to go there.

Falk becomes a local celebrity when he stands down a bulldozer at a protest at the construction of a nuclear waste dump and his act is captured by a television crew. While he is under arrest for trespassing, he volunteers and is ultimately enlisted by the local sheriff to help solve what on the surface seems to be the work of a random serial killer.

Robert Littell, best known for
The Defection of A. J. LeWinter, The Once and Future Spy, and recently, The Sisters, has again demonstrated his genius at storytelling and prose.

In this new novel, The Visiting Professor, Littell has Falk, who learned rudimentary English from his father's secret copy of the Royal Canadian Air Force Exercise Manual, search for the meaning of life with a wonderful humor that had me chuck-ling constantly. Early in the book Falk meets a barber half his age, Occasional Rain, who helps him understand the relationship of chaos, sex and love.

Littell is a great storyteller whose prose is a joy to read. I especially relished Littell's development of Falk's English from broken to that dominated by the slang of his playmate and soulmate, Occasional Rain.

This little book, 226 pages, is full of seriousness and fun. Lit-tell has done a wonderful job moving his novels from those of the cold war to the so-called era of peace between the superpowers.

Littell, like LeCarre, is a master at adapting the spy genre to the changing themes of international politics and intrigue.

While I couldn't classify The Visiting Professor a spy novel, Falk is constantly courted and even hunted by members of the Mafia and the American and Israeli intelligence services because of his widely recognized ability to break ciphers.
His only real desires are to find truth in the study of huge random numbers, to solve the random murders that are plaguing upper New York State and for Occasional Rain.

I can always tell a well-written book by the number of times I interrupt my wife's reading to quote from it. I interrupted her so much with this book that she threatened to get separate bedrooms.

I just finished John Grisham's The Client, and although I admit enjoying the story, I wasn't tempted once to quote from it to anybody, especially my wife. Go figure.

The Visiting Professor (Random House, $21) is available locally at Bookends Bookstore and The Book Rack. Review, courtesy Bookends.

Jackson Public Schools save by taking bids

In a wise move to hold down costs, Jackson Public School District is taking bids from private custodial firms—large and small—and comparing private costs to the school system's in-house costs for cleaning services.

The idea is to "shop around" for the best price to ensure that the school system is spending the least amount possible for the service.

Charles Lowe, coordinator of Internal Services for Jackson Public Schools, said JPS took bids from private firms on pest control services and found that they could save by privatizing the service. As it turned out, Lowe said, JPS saved "a bundle" using private business to do the job.

"We (JPS) have to constantly look at costs to make sure we aren't spending any more than we have to," said Lowe. For Jackson Public Schools, "constantly looking" means trying cost-effective budgeting techniques such as privatization.

It's the kind of approach MEC has promoted for all tax-supported programs for years.
But sadly, the idea still seems radical and too bothersome to many public school systems.

That's a shame, because school systems too stubborn to investigate privatization are most likely overlooking opportunities to save tax dollars.

MEC salutes Jackson Public Schools for its progressive use of privatization—an innovative approach to the use of taxpayers' money.

PUBLIC HEARING NOTICE

Hancock County is considering applying to the Mississippi Department of Economic and Community Development for a Home Investment Partnership Act Grant and/or Community Development Block Grant.
The State of Mississippi has been awarded a 1994 allocation of $5,000,000 which will be made available to cities and counties on a competitive basis to undertake eligible community development activities. These funds must be used for one of the following purposes:

- 1] To benefit low and moderate income persons; or
- 2] To aid in the prevention or elimination of slums or blight; or
- 3] To meet other community development needs having a particular urgency because existing conditions pose a threat to the health and welfare of the community where other financial resources are not available to meet such needs.

The activities for which these funds may be used are in the areas of housing, public facilities and economic development. More specific details regarding eligible activities, program requirements and the rating system will be provided at a public hearing which will be held at the County Courthouse on May 16, 1994 at 6:30 p.m. The purpose of this hearing will be to obtain citizen input into the development of a grant application.

Written comments concerning the proposed application may be submitted until May 20, 1994 at Hancock County Courthouse or may be mailed. All comments offered at the public hearings and in writing will be considered by the Board of Supervisors in developing the proposed grant application.

A second hearing will be held at the courthouse on May 23, 1994, at 6:30 p.m. The purpose of this hearing is to inform the citizenry of the proposed activities that were considered and why the particular activities were chosen for the project.

All citizens are invited to attend either or both meetings.

COOKING UP A STORM

By Katy McGuire Caire

Feast on strawberries

"... and feast upon strawberries, sugar and cream" — so goes the old rhyme. And, that's just what I'm doing these delicious "strawberry days" of springtime, feasting upon strawberries in every way I can find!

There are so many, and all of them delicious. For the easiest dessert, I like to pile strawberries in a crystal or clear glass bowl, accompanied by bowls of sour cream and of brown sugar for dipping the berries.

I like strawberries, unsugared, topping over homemade vanilla custard ice cream, the tart taste of the bright berries mating so well with the rich sweetness of the ice cream. In fact, I "like 'em any way that I can get 'em."

I suppose that my favorite of all strawberry desserts is an old-fashioned strawberry shortcake, not the popular sponge-cake sort, but the "old-time" biscuit shortcake which was the usual sort in my younger days.

Thick cream was poured over each portion at the last minute before serving, so that the biscuit crust stayed crisp.

But, then again, there's fresh strawberry pie, blazing like a jewel, all cozy-good — and ever so easy. Here's:

STRAWBERRY PIE

2 quarts strawberries, washed, hulled, drained
1/2 cup water
1 cup sugar
2 1/2 Tblsp. cornstarch (or other thickener)
1 Tblsp. or more butter or margarine
1 baked pie shell

Bake the pie shell. And, then: Begin with, wash, hull and drain the strawberries. Crush two cups of berries, reserving the remaining berries whole. Mix the crushed berries with the half-cup of water, the cup of sugar and the cornstarch (my preference) or other thickener. You may use potato starch or arrowroot if you prefer, but for this strawberry pie cornstarch works best, at least for me.

Simmer the mixture, stirring a minute or so until it's thick and clear, then drop in a tablespoon or so of butter or margarine, and if you wish, a dash of red food coloring (I don't). Put the mixture through a food strainer, then cool for 15 or 20 minutes.

MISSISSIPPI

Sal Licciardi of Picayune and Barbara Scott of Pascagoula were crowned MS TOPS 1993 King and Queen in ceremonies at the Sawmill Ramada Inn in Laurel, MS during TOPS State Recognition Days April 22 and 23rd.

King Licciardi of TOPS MS 198, Picayune lost 108.50 pounds in seven months to reach his physician-set goal in TOPS. He credits his successful year to eating sensibly, changing eating habits, getting lots of exercise, drinking plenty of water and to his chapter for the support they've given him. Sal, who operates a law care business states he has a new motto "If I can do it, anyone can do it", as well as a new lease on life.

Queen Scott of TOPS MS 203, Escatawpa, lost 142 pounds over a twenty-six month period to achieve her goal weight. She credits her weight loss to the encouragement of her TOPS friends, spending more time reading labels during grocery-shopping trips, developing a new, sensible eating program and her faith in God for the willpower to face one day at a time.

Barbara, a beautician and co-leader of her chapter, gets excited when she shares her experiences in TOPS and tells how she can now walk miles a day and combines this with a program of toning and watching food intake to maintain her loss. Licciardi and Scott will represent MS TOPS members when they travel to Charleston, W. VA in July for International Recognition Days.

Runners-up to the king and queen were Charlie Sanders of TOPS MS 145, Laurel and Myrtle Edge of 198, Picayune.

State division winners recognized were Licciardi, Edge, Paul Frierson, and Scarlett Mitchell of Picayune, Sanders of Laurel, Warren Hunt, Ackerman, James Irvin of West Point, Vennie Cooley, Meridian, Joyce Bridges, Canton, Lisa Naber, D'Iberville, Karen Jackson, Waveland. Pauline Moran, Gulfport, Palmyra Kittle, Ocean Springs and Fern White of Daisy Vestry.

The convention was attended by 485 members and guests who learned that altogether MS members had lost 9,917.25 pounds in 1993.

Events concluded on Saturday evening with an invitation by Area Captain Daphne Bordelon of Columbus and members of her chapter to the 1994 SRD on April 21-22, 1995 at the Gilmer Convention Center in Columbus.

REFLECTIONS ON LIFE

By Father Jerome LeDoux, SVD

Burying Elizabeth Evans was not too sorrowful or burdensome a task, although her son Hubert was obviously afflicted by the loss of his only treasure on earth.

Elizabeth herself had done well and for a long time most things we humans cherish in life. To begin with, her profession was one of the most fulfilling. More importantly, her heart was completely absorbed into her vocation.

Being a registered nurse and pursuing the ideals of a nurse until the twilight of her 88 years completed the joyful role of being mother and homemaker. Her specialty and delight was ministering to the elderly in need of nursing.

When we say mother, we are immediately put in mind of someone like Elizabeth. One who has given life as a mother, and one who nurtures life, heals wounds and nurses back to health qualifies to stand alongside God the life-giver.

Mother's Day never fades, never grows old, because it is a celebration of human life-giving love and power parallel to God's own creative, ever-fresh and everlasting love.

Long after our earthly mothers have slid past the beautiful years of their prime and are faced with the setting sun in their lives, we look to them for a flash of what used to be. Just call my name; recognize me, we mutter.

My own mother, Gastonia, has been fighting a losing battle against Alzheimer's disease for close to a decade. The erosion of her health has been slow but sure, culminating about two years ago in the loss of her ability to call names.

All we siblings and cousins have now is her recognition of certain things such as gospel songs. With this in mind, I reached her late Christmas evening. Unfortunately, she had already been put to bed and was fast asleep.

Try as I might, I could not awaken her, even though I spoke loudly and directly into her good ear. After some 15 or 20 minutes of this futile pursuit, I gave up in dejection. "Merry Christmas, Mom!" I said aloud and left.

About two months later, I was by her bedside again, once more unable to reach her before bedtime. This time, however, I thought back to Christmas three years ago when mother had sung the entire first stanza of Adeste Fideles in Latin.

By George, if it worked then, it should work again. There must have been something in the Latin which triggered her memory better than the English did. So it was back to Latin.

We were two months late, but we would celebrate Christmas anyway. Once again, I tried futilely to arouse her by speaking loudly into her ear. That failing, I burst immediately into song, beginning with "His Eye Is On the Sparrow."

Viola! Her eyes strained to open, though they remained shut for the most part. Her hand tightened around mine, expressing deep emotion at the moving melody and words of the delegation to festival

The Mississippi delegation, along with their chaperones, will be attending the International Very Special Arts Festival in Brussels, Belgium in May.

The Mississippi delegation will join Very Special Artists from 45 states and 42 countries at this four-day event. The Mississippi delegation has been invited to conduct a jewelry creations workshop under the direction of Laurel Designers Tracy Traylor and Ginny Traylor — the only workshop of its kind at the festival.

Included in the delegation is Mikel Watkins of Bay St. Louis. Funds are being raised for the trip. Any contributions can be sent to the VSA MS office at P.O. Box 5365, Mississippi State, MS 39762, (601) 325-2367.

music so dear to her heart. Then on to "Amazing Grace."

Finally, the acid test came. After two stanzas of "What a Friend We Have in Jesus," I shifted into Christmas carols. There was still no appreciable change until I struck up the original Latin of "Adeste Fideles."

My reward was profound as I saw her lips, no longer able to sing the Latin words, struggle continuously nonetheless to form them and get them out. Yes, mom. We had been to church.

Nurses charting the course for nation's healthy future

This year, Mississippi's 19,000 and the nation's 2.2 million registered nurses will focus on the contribution their unique skills make in maintaining optimum health care for the majority of Americans during National Nurses Week, to be celebrated May 6-12.

While Americans may speculate exactly how their health care will be delivered in the future, registered nurses remain devoted to providing dependable, affordable, accessible care. RN's, the largest health care profession, practice in myriad settings from hospitals and public clinics to the work site and home.

National Nurses Week begins on May 6, the traditional National Nurses Day and encompasses May 12, the birthday of Florence Nightingale, the founder of nursing as a profession. This year's theme, "Nurses: Charting the Course for a Healthy Nation," reflects the desire to find the appropriate direction in which to guide health care delivery into the 21st century and accents diverse ways that registered nurses are working to improve health care.

The Mississippi Nurses Association and its 25 District Nurses Associations work in 'Celebrate the Arts' set for May 16

The Greater Gulf Coast Arts Council will 'Celebrate the Arts,' Monday, May 16, 6:30 to 8:30 p.m.

The location is the Union Station, 'The Depot,' Fifteenth St., Gulfport.

The party to 'Celebrate the Arts' is free and open to the public, Lee Hood, spokesman, said.

There will be entertainment, cocktails, hors d'oeuvres, including the art exhibit and a general meeting.

cooperation with the American Nurses Association to highlight the work of nurses in all settings. ANA sponsors a nationwide "Search for Excellence" contest in which nurses are honored for their exceptional contributions to the nursing profession.

Through the Mississippi Nurses Association, registered nurses are actively working to advance health care reform in order to correct the faults of the current system while preserving its strengths. Many of the concepts basic to most health care reform agendas encompass prevention of disease and promotion of health—the core of nursing education.

All nurses, from bedside nurses in acute hospital settings to advanced practice nurses, meet acute and chronic needs with a strong grounding in the principles of prevention and health promotion.

PETITION FOR VACATION OF PLAT COMES NOW, your Petitioner, Purcell Co., Inc. (formerly Diamondhead Corporation), a Delaware corporation licensed to do business in Mississippi, of Suite 3, 4402 East Aloha Drive, Diamondhead, Mississippi 39525, and respectfully represents unto the Court the following, to-wit:
1) Petitioner heretofore caused a plat of Fairway Estate II, Diamondhead, to be recorded in Plat Book 6 at Pages 1, 2 and 3 on January 9, 1979, in the Office of the Chancery Clerk of Hancock County, Mississippi;
2) Petitioner now seeks, pursuant to Section 19-27-31 MISS. CODE ANN. (1972), to vacate said plat in its entirety consisting of Lots 1-226 inclusive, Fairway Estate II, Diamondhead, together with the streets and drainage and utility easements depicted on said plat, a copy of said plat to be vacated is attached hereto and made a part hereof as Exhibit "A"; 3) Petitioner would show unto the Court that it is the sole owner in fee simple of all of the property which is the subject of the vacation requested;
4) That no streets, water or sewer utilities, as planned for the subject plat to be vacated, have ever been constructed, developed or installed;
5) That the only persons who have any interest in the subject property, other than your Petitioner, are the Board of Supervisors of Hancock County as the representative authority of Hancock County, Mississippi;
the Diamondhead Country Club and Property Owners Association, Inc., a non-profit Mississippi corporation, as the representative of individual property owners within the Diamondhead subdivision; and, the Diamond-head Water and Sewer District, a public corporation;
6) Petitioner would show unto the Court that there are no restrictive covenants applicable to the property subject to the vacation requested; that certain Declaration of Restrictions, Conditions, Easements, Covenants, Agreements, Liens and Charges of Fairway Estate II was annulled on April 21, 1994, as more fully described on Exhibit "B" attached hereto and made a part hereof;
7) Petitioner would show unto the Court that by Agreement between Petitioner and Hancock County, dated June 2, 1983, Petitioner agreed not to sell, transfer or otherwise dispose of the real property comprising Fairway Estate II until received subdivision improvements were installed by Petitioner, or until the plat of Fairway Estate II had been vacated by this Court. A copy of said Agreement is attached hereto and made a part hereof as Exhibit "C";
8) Petitioner would show unto the Court that the present configuration and design of the plat of Fairway Estate II is not capable of being developed as originally planned due to a determination by the Department of the Army, Mobile District, Corps of Engineers that approximately forty percent (40%) of the subject property constitutes Section 404 wetlands under the Clean Water Act of 1977 (33 USC 1344), as more particularly described on Corps of Engineers' letters dated March 23, 1994 and April 18, 1994, respectively attached hereto and made a part hereof as Exhibits "D" and "E"; 9) Petitioner would show unto the Court that the Diamondhead Country Club and Property Owners Association, Inc., on behalf of all of its property owners within the Diamondhead subdivision, has previously agreed to this requested vacation by letter agreement dated December 21, 1994, a copy of which letter agreement is attached hereto and made a part hereof as Exhibit "F";
and,
10) Petitioner would further show unto the Court that the subject property, less the aforementioned Section 404 wetlands, will be replanted into Lots 1-189, inclusive, of a subdivision known as "GlenEagle at Diamond-head" substantially according to the plat map attached hereto and made a part hereof as Exhibit "G" and which plat map has received preliminary approval from the Hancock County Planning Commission.
Your Petitioner therefore prays that this Honorable Court enter an order vacating the aforesaid plat of Fairway Estate II, Diamondhead, and directing that said order be recorded as a deed with a memorandum thereof noted on the record of said plat.
Respectfully submitted this 4th day of May, 1994.
